Hey fella!

Can you spare some time to be a 'Big Brother'?

For a young boy growing up, life without a father can be pretty rough sometimes.

Sure Mom is great, but there are some times when a father image is a very important thing to a young boy trying to be a man.

Military families encounter this problem frequently if the father is on an unaccompanied tour, away from home on special assignments, or never coming home again.

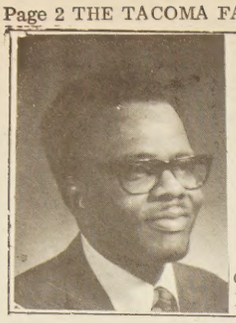
The Fort Lewis Big Brother program was started to help out in just these circumstances. A group of dedicated, enthused people are pledged to offer a helping hand and an understanding ear to boys—and girls—who need it.

While not affiliated with Big Brothers of America, a national program, the Fort Lewis organization patterns its operation after the country-wide agency. Qualified "Big Brothers" are selected through personal interview, and are introduced to boys who have applied to the program. An effort is made to match people with others of common interests.

The boys and their big brothers go on trips, barbecues, and other outings together, sharing time and ideas. It's a great experience for both parties.

Girls aren't forgotten in the program. There are "Big Sisters" willing to help out if Mom isn't around.

If you're concerned enough and willing to spare a little time, contact Robert Dunn Jr. at 8-2709. Dunn, one of the program's directors, can fill you in on the operation and arrange for an interview. He is also the contact for parents who might like to get their children involved.



You Are Invited to the St. John Baptist Church So. 20th & J St. Tacoma, Wash. Sundays. 10am, -11am.
We Offer Family Counseling & Spiritual guidance.

YES is Concerned

There are many types of organizations that are concerned about the welfare and well-being of the youth of today. The YES is one of those very concerned organizations seeking to assist youth in finding jobs and work experience for the summer. Through the cooperation and concern of the business community and homeowners the YES has successfully placed in excess of 100 young people on summer jobs. If the business community and homeowners had shut the door of opportunity in the face of these xqm people they would be without jobs today.

The YES staff would like to thank each business and homeowner for their consideration and understanding in seeing the need of providing summer employment for the youth of Tacoma. We here at the YES, together with Tacoma's youth, ask that you continue showing that you have the interest of youth at heart by helping to "mold a man" by providing job opportunities for youth.

Also, the YES would like to thank Mr. William Wade, the Metro Director of the National Alliance to Businessmen for his support in the YES program.

SO COME ON CUMMUNITY, LET'S ALL GET INVOLVED AND HIRE A YOUTH FOR THE SUMMER. YOU CAN HELP MOLD A MAN BY GIVING A YOUTH A JOB THIS SUMMER.

Clara Ward To Dedicate Mother Honoring Her

A dream that was 35 years in the making will become a reality Sunday (June 18) when Clara Ward and her gospel group, the Ward Singers, dedicate a new church in Los Angeles honoring her mother, Evangelist Gertrude Ward. The noted gospel group will also perform at the dedication.

The Church, The Miracle Temple of Faith For All People will be dedicated at 4:00 p.m., Sunday (June 18) with the Rev. A. A. Peters presiding. The church is located at 5225 South Main Street, and a reception will be held at the Wesley Methodist Church, 112 W. 52nd Street, following the dedication.

Born to a family of dedicated religious workers in Anderson, S.C., Gertrude Ward was brought up with church music and formed the Ward Singers in 1920 at Philadelphia, where she organized the first training program in gospel music for the city.

The new church, which was financed by proceeds from the Clara Ward concerts and personal appearances over a period of 10 years, will be dedicated to presenting new gospel singers and serving as a pulpit for new ministers. The church will be open every evening (7:30 p.m.), in addition to the Sunday services, (11:00 a.m., Sunday School, 9:30 a.m.)

Gertrude Ward, an octogenarian, continues to play an active part in the career of her daughter, who has become one of the most successful gospel singers with more than 50 albums recorded.

"The Lord wanted me to form my own church even though it took me 35 years," the Evangelist said.

Duty at Fort Lewis Can Be Attractive

Fort Lewis, Wash. — A tour of duty at Fort Lewis includes many attractions and opportunities that speak for themselves—the outdoor wonder of the Great Pacific Northwest, numerous educational programs tailored to meet almost any career pattern or academic interest, and possibly the most varied, challenging, and exciting field training in the nation.

When Unit of Choice recruiters speak to a young man about joining the 9th Infantry Division, they usually let the Army Center of the Northwest do the talking.

Reports filtering back from Unit of Choice recruiters scattered throughout the Sixth Army area, from Seattle to Vancouver, to Portland, to Coos Bay, to Fort Ord and Phoenix, indicate a rich vein of response containing a high grade ore of the Fort Lewis alloy—recreation, education, and training.

"The 9th is really selling itself," 2nd Lieutenant Bill Youngren reports enthusiastically from Phoenix. Formerly assigned here with the Division's 77th Armor, 2nd Brigade, he brought his five-man Unit of Choice team into Arizona and in the first ten days had enlisted 23 men for service with the 9th Division. Another 12 were strong possibilities, he said.

"They're picking up the option for a number of reasons, but the biggest draw seems to be the wide open job training available with the Division. The guys have split about 50-50 between combat arms and technical jobs," Youngren said.

He noted that the recreational opportunities in Washington are probably the second biggest attraction for Arizonians, with Fort Lewis' educational programs a close third.

The rigors and challenges of adventure training appeal to quite a few of the big city boys, according to Sergeant Major Robert A. Mayes. Mayes heads an eight-man team that's been canvassing the Seattle area since April.

"Many of these men seem quite impressed by the adventure training concept," Mayes said. "These guys want to be challenged. The apparent physical difficulties of long-range conditioning patrols in the mountains and the mastering of Ranger-type skills such as land navigation, waterborne travel, and living off the land, really catches their fancy. It sounds exciting as well as challenging," Sergeant Major Mayes said.

In addition to acting as liaison between the Division and Unit of Choice enlistees going through basic training at Fort Ord, Staff Sergeant Bobby Morton has used the 16 months stabilized tour factor and Fort Lewis' impressive educational programs to attract potential "Old Reliables" in the Salinas, Monterey and Santa Cruz areas of California.

Capitalizing on a spreading national phenomenon—sophomore itch—Morton has found many men interested in making the switch from college student to "Old Reliable." But they're not so interested that they want to make a complete switch, and that's the hitch.

"A lot of young people in this country," Morton says, "complete one or two years of college, and suddenly they want to explore a bit. They begin to have second thoughts about continuing with higher education right away. They're tired of continual schooling, and they want a change.

"The Army offers them about as complete a change as possible, and a lot are curious to find out what it's really like. In the back of their minds, however, is a reluctance to just drop it all. They feel a need to get that degree.

"That's where the Unit of Choice option and Fort Lewis' educational programs provide the answer. For some, it seems the perfect solution.

"Through a guaranteed 16 months stabilized tour and an opportunity to continue their education, probably in the very same academic field, you might say the 9th Division's Unit of Choice program offers the best of both worlds.

"We get a lot of guys this way," Morton remarked. "It's a chance for adventure, a chance to continue studying, and also to earn those 36 months of educational benefits."

Soldiers Help Camp for Handicapped

FORT LEWIS, WA.—A $884 check handed Washington Governor Daniel J. Evans in a Fort Lewis motor pool Thursday has capped an ambitious social assistance project by a small unit here.

Fattened by three-to-one matching funds, the money will help Camp Oak Patch vocational camp north of Bremerton to provide residence facilities for its physically handicapped or mentally retarded workers.

Soldiers of the 513th Maintenance Company presented the check to the Governor who stopped by the motor pool where they are readying equipment for their upcoming move to Fort Bliss, Texas.

The company, which represents tanks and other vehicles of the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment, will accompany the Regiment to the southwest post later this month.

With CW2 James Kelly quarterbacking the effort, the unit staged a car wash that earned $214, and then a rummage sale which brought $670. Leftover goods from the sale were given to the Good Will, Salvation Army, and Old Soldiers Home.

Earlier, some of its members worked at the camp and instructed workers in the use of tools and equipment.

According to Charles Denend of Port Orchard, camp director, his "clients" must now be transported from homes to their daily jobs.

He said the donated money would enable completion of a kitchen and dining room that would enable a dozen workers to live in cabins on the 12-acre camp.

Operated by a non-profit organization of parents and other volunteers, the camp is supported by county, state, federal sources and UGN and private donations. It offers severely handicapped persons continued training beyond that available in community or state schools, and an alternative to a lifetime in an institution.

DENIMS SUITABLE FOR SUMMER

There are dazzling doings in denims. Montgomery Ward is advancing with the popularity of denim jackets and pants by applying the same look to swimsuits. This pair plays variations on the denim theme. Red polka-dotted outfit, available in retail stores, makes the top and pants trim of a two-piece suit ($12), and the lady in the lounger has a denim blue suit with nautical white criss-cross trim ($15). Both suits combine the denim look with polyester fabric which holds shapes and colors effectively.

CORNROWING COMEBACK ---Nina Simone is the woman whose stunning hairdo is a variation of the delicate hairstyle known as cornrowing. According to Encore, the magizine from which this photo is taken, cornrowing was brought over to America by Africans on the slave ships. Now it can be more than just a way to keep kids' kinks organized. It' can involve a touch of cornrowing at the forehead, which is backed by a flowing Afro known as "African Sun," and which can give a sophisticated look to today's woman. There's a lot you can do with cornrowing and one Brooklyn, N.Y., department store, Abraham & Straus, is conducting classes on Saturdays in the newfound art. Encore magazine is now on your l local newsstand.

Sarah Vaughan Spinning Again

You may not have heard from her lately, but Sarah Vaughan has been a very busy lady these last five years. And even if you haven't heard one of her records recently, it's rather unlikely that you've forgotten that golden-clear, jazz-operatic voice or the melody of at least one of her classic hits.

Sarah's been out of the recording studios for the last five years, doing concerts in Europe, playing clubs across the United States, getting close to the people and turning folks on to the intimate sound of "Sassy."

"There comes a point in an artist's career, after many years of striving, when the fruits of your labor really begin to ripen," Sarah says. "your records are hits, the royalty checks coming in afford you a beautiful home and you've got most of the comforts of life."

"But how do you really measure success," she continues, "If you're an artist you have to hear applause, you thrive on people to people contact, and, most importantly, you have to have an arena where you can experiment and try out music that you don't get a chance to when you are recording."

"That is why I went back out among the people, back to the roots, to get that energy that only a live audience can give you."

But this year Sarah went back into the recording studios as well. She recorded two beautiful albums for Mainstream. Her second album features the velvet voice of Sarah Vaughan with the genius of Academy Award winning composer, Michele Legrand's music.

Her musical tastes haven't changed, she still loves beautiful songs. "But I feel revitalized. It's like having battery inside of you that has been recharged."

"I feel now that I know what the people want to hear, and what they expect from me," the songstress explained.

The public that expects nothing but the best from Sarah Vaughan gets just that from her teaming with Michele Legrand.

Songs on the new album include such Academy Award nominees as, "What Are You Doing The Rest of Your Life?," "Pieces of Dreams, and "The Summer Knows" from "Summer of '42." all of them tinted with that very special "Sassy" essence that blends and stretches notes as only Sarah Vaughan can.

"I like good songs with beautiful melodis. It's as simple as that." she explains. "We are going through a period now where so many performers are involved with social message songs. And there is a need for that, because the best form of communication is through music. As for me, I really groove on songs about love. Love your man, love your neighbor, love your fellow man. And that's about as social as I get with my music.

But whether Sarah agrees or not, she has been sending out her own special message.

Since the first night she was discovered by Billy Eckstine from the audience of the Apollo Theatre in Harlem at an amateur contest, Sarah has gone from one plateau of success to another. The message is clear.

There are not and should not be any boundaries for pure talent.

Sarah Vaughan is Black, but that does not limit her to being only a rhythum and blues star, although no one would accuse her of not being a "soul" star, because she's got plent of soul.

At times, there have been those who thought of Sarah Vaughan as a jazz singer, but she has broken that boundary also.

She is a singer for all people, for all races, for any ethnic classification. She is what is known in show business circles as a "Musician's singer." She can sing in front of a band with a trio, or sing playing organ or piano.

If the golden voice of "Miss Sassy" was never heard again, she would have made her mark on the public. It's there on record, on tape, on film, never to be erased.

But happily, the public wont' have to worry about that. Because that incredible voice that never limited its potential, that has matured with time like fine wine, is back on the record racks, back on the turntables, coming in over the airwaves, and sending out music.. ....and it's like beautiful.

NNPA Has Exciting Miami Meeting

John H. Sengstacke presiding at Panel on "Improving Business Opportunities for Black Americans". Others L. to R., Berkely G. Burrell, J. Owen Funderbury and Inez Kaiser.

Surprise visitor, Senator Hubert Humphery, receiving standing ovation at Friday luncheon. Mr. Frank Borman and Mr. Garth C. Reeves to his right.

The Rev. Jesses Jackson, Director of People to Save Humanity (Operation P. U. S. H.), said June 22 that Blacks have the power to determine the Democratic nominee for President and to decide the outcome of the presidential election in November.

Speaking at the 32nd Annual National Newspaper Publishers Association convention in Miami, Jackson stated that Operation P. U. S. H. has been in contact with delegates to both the democratic and republican conventions, and expects to have a united, coordinated and power ful force on the floors of both conventions this summer.

"The hands that picked cotton in 1964 can pick the President in 1972." With nearly 500 Black delegates at the Democratic convention "we intend to seize the mikes legitimately," Jackson said.

Mrs. Lenora Carter, Emcee at Thursday night dinner, listening to Phillip V. Sanchez, speaker.

The first general session of the 32nd Annual National Newspaper Publishers Association convention held in Miami, June 21-24, Thurs. with NNPA Vice-President Dr. Carlton B. Goodlet presiding.

The topic was "Improving the income of Black workers and how the Black press can help."

The panel of speakers included William H. Brown, III, Chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; Adolph Holmes, Deputy Executive Director of the National Urban League; Fred E. Romero, Director of the Office of Taining Program Administration; Gloria E. A. Toote, Assistant Director of Action; and Hulbert James, Special Assistant to Dr. George Wiley, President of the National Welfare Rights organization.

Dr. Goodlet began the discussion by saying, "The Democratic process is a process of becoming, we (Blacks) never arrived."

Teh Scale of economic freedom is not measured by the number of Black vice presidents in American corporation, but rather by the low level mark of Blacks in Miami, and New York, and Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and the whole country." He said. "To improve, selfishly, the fare of the Black press, we must be concerned vigorously with the day-to-day search for economic opportunities and viabilities for the Black workers," he added.

One of four Presidential candidates invited to address the National Newspaper Publishers Association at their 32nd annual convention in Miami June 21-24 appeared at the session.

Senator Jubert H. Humphey spoke to the convention guests at a June 23 luncheon. President Richard Nixon, Senator George McGovern and Rep. Shirley Chisholm were unable to attend, though the executive board of NNPA arranged a "conference call" by telephone to Sen. McGovern.

Senator Humphrey, who received the "NNPA" Distinguished Service Award" in 1966 spoke "frankly with his friends" about his record of involvement on their behalf and his four-point plan to continue that involvement.

OLYMPIC POSTERS

Sports fans turned art collectors can make an investment of Olympic proportions. The Munich Olympic Committee has commissioned leading artists from all over the world to prepare original prints and posters interpreting the Olympic spirit of the Games which are to be held in August. Graphics are a widely collected art form and have appreciated much in value.

Three types of prints have been published: a select edition of 200 original prints personally signed and numbered by the artists; an edition of 4,000 with the artist signature in print; and an unlimited edition of offset posters. Prints and posters measure about 40 by 25 inches.

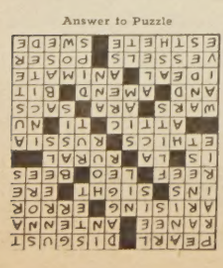
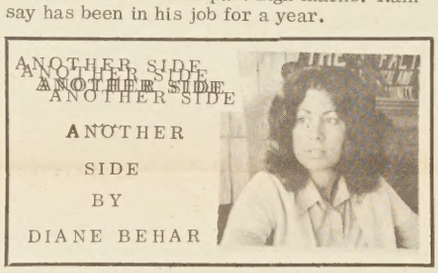
Answer to Puzzle



AIR FORCE ACADEMY NOW RECRUITER

RECRUITER--Captain Bob Ramsay, assistant director of the Air Force Academy's Candidate Advisory Service, talks with Lieutenant Colonel Naomi McCracken, associate Registrar, about recruiting members of minorities in the Academy and the Academy's Preparatory School. There have been 90 appointments offered blacks and other minorities for the Class of 1976 which reported to the Academy today (July 3). The prep school class, which begins regular studies August 28 will have 85-90 minority students. Both figures are more than double past high marks. Ramsay has been in his job for a year.



Davis Case A Review

The Angela Davis trial is over now, and she has been acquitted; after spending approximat ely a year and a half in jail and being put through the stress of a long, and highly publicized trial.

The prosecutor's case was based on the accusation that she was an accomplice to the murders in the Marin County courthouse in 1970, by providing the guns used in it, because of her deep love for Johnathan Jackson. I read in a local paper that the prosecution called over ninety witnesses for the case. The defense was said to have called only twelve, and Miss Davis was acquitted.

It is not my purpose, though, to decide the validity of either side presented in the case.

In spite of the fact that there were no black people on the jury, Miss Davis was freed, which perhaps speaks well for the operation of our judicial system.

One thing that particularly struck me though, during the course of events surrounding Miss Davis's arrest and trial didn't have to do with the proceedings themselves. In the articles I read, and broadcasts that I heard, I became aware of an undue emphasis on the fact that Angela Davis is a communist. (In this particular case it may not have been a teribly essential detail. In some other case it could make a great deal of difference.)

After having been stated simply as a biographical fact of Miss Davis's life it becomes an unnecessary label that could possibly change people's opinions of her innocence or guilt. However, it it is contimually pointed out, it puts quite a strain on the belief that "the accused is innocent until proven guilty".

The point is that if Miss Davis (or whoever the accused) had been an "existentialist", a "fatalist", or a "determinist" it probably would have been disregarded by a great many because these words don't carry the fearful connotations that the word "communism" carries.

The suspicions of many were unjustly aroused, and yet ironically challenged by the trial and its outcome.

Help for the Visually Impaired

A long time needed program for the visually impaired persons of the Tacoma and Pierce County is now available in Tacoma.

It is the Tacoma Assoc. of the blind. At 4221 East T.

This is a place where the low vision and the blind persons of this area can go or call to get most of their aids and supplies that they may need. It is also a place that anyone that may be interested in blindness or the prevention of blindness can get most of the information you may want to get on blindness aids and booklets on what blindness is and the prevention of blindness so well as the causes of blindness.

If you or anyone you know want information, you are more than welcome to stop in or call anytime to get help with getting most of the aids and applications for the low vision persons of all ages. All the information on blindness and the aids for low vision persons is free to anyone who wants it.

The Tacoma Assoc. of the Blind is a non-profit organization. I am here to help the low vision person of any age, in any way that I can. The only thing I get out of this is the good feeling that in some way I am helping people with bad eyes to help themselves.

The Tacoma Assoc. of the Blind was started last year for the purpose of having a place in the Tacoma area that a person that may need aids or want information on blindness, and the resources that are available.

If you have any questions on what blindness is or need information on how and where to get aids for low vision persons or would like to help low vision persons to help themselves, please call or write to me at 4221 E. T. Tacoma, and I will be more than happy to send you information.

Any gifts or donations to the Tacoma Assoc. of the Blind would be greatly appreciated. Many low vision persons need aids and supplies, but are not able to afford them. The Association supplies these people free.

All suggestions you may have, please send to Tacoma Assoc. of the Blind, 4221 East T., Tacoma, Wsh. 98404.

The Tacoma Assoc. of the Blind was started and is run by Gary W. Pimlott.

I know there are a lot of persons here in the Tacoma area who need aids to help them with school work, house work and everyday uses, and I would like to get all the things these people require and give them to them free of charge, but unfortunately the supplies themselves are not free to me, so this is a difficult problem.

The things which I sell to the blind are sold to them for the same price as I pay for them.

Even the information on blindness that I have to distribute free, costs me. I do not charge for the information to anyone, as I feel that this is my opportunity to help in the small way that I can.

FRINGE BENEFITS: GETTING YOUR SHARE?

The wage freeze isn't cooling off the enthusiasm of companies that want to "do right" by employees who deserve it, and one of the inducements some companies are pleased to offer, when the idea is suggested, is free use of a vacation house or condotell. Other companies build good-will by inviting important clients to enjoy these luxurious apartments as their guests.

A condotell, like the fabulous Lucayan Towers on Grand Bahama Island, is a resort condominium where luxury apartments, with all essential hotel services included, may occasionally be rented for a holiday.

Many of the owners of these magnificent Lucayan Towers apartments occupy them only a few months of the year. So, from time to time, there are apartments (and two penthouses) that may be rented for short periods—at rates considerably lower than comparable accommodations in a luxury hotel.

If you'd like to know more about how to reward your hardest workers or clients with this very special kind of relatively inexpensive fun-in-the-sun living, write to Booklet Distributors of America, Inc., 220 West 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10036. Or phone Freeport 373-1033.
